EARTHQUAKE IN YOKAHOMA CITY
CAUSES BIG FIRE

Concern Felt Over American Citizens
There—The Section They
Liv in Has Been Affected Before.

SHOCK IS FELT THROUGHOUT ISLAND

Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Practically the entire city of Yokohama is afire and numerous casualties occurred as a result of a conflagration which broke out after a severe earthquake shock, according to a message from the Japanese radio station at Iwaki.

Associated Press.
NAGASAKI, Japan, Sept. 1.—Naval wireless message said after repeated earthquakes, fire has broken out in Yokohama and the inhabitants are seeking refuge in ships in the harbor.

WASHINGTON—It is estimated that thousands of citizens of the United States who have business connections in Tokyo live in the section reported affected by the conflagration. More than half of them have chosen Yokohama as a place of residence.

By Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—(Associated Press)—Efforts are being made to communicate with Yokohama by cable in a circuitous route. While it is ultimately believed the effort would be a success, it had failed up to noon.

By Associated Press.
OSAKA, Japan, Sept. 1.—(Associated Press)—Earthquake lasting six minutes was felt here today. Telegraphic lines are down, but it is believed to have had a serious effect in Tokyo and that great damage is done there as well as in Yokohama. The shock stopped all clocks here.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(Associated Press)—Concern over the fate of Americans in Yokohama is more intense because in previous shocks there the section occupied by foreign colonies has been most severely shaken.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—(Associated Press)—Message from Waki said "conflagration subsident to a severe earthquake at Yokohama at noon Saturday has set the whole city ablaze. Numerous casualties."

L. AND N. WINTER COAL SUPPLY IS NOW COMPLETE

The L. and N. has completed the work of accumulating a winter supply of coal at the side of the tracks on the yards at the north of the city. About 4,500 tons, it is said, have been moved there. The supply will serve as fuel for locomotives on this branch during the winter.

Much of the coal was unloaded by hand by a crew of men, though a mammoth crane was used during the early stages of the work. This crane has recently been moved to Four Mile where it was used to move the small depot to the opposite side of the tracks.

Boys Green Property
John Spole has purchased the house and lot of George Green on Manchester avenue and Twenty-sixth street. The deal was made through the agency of Ed Patterson, realty agent.

ROAD COMPLETED IN HARLAN FROM LENA TO CAWOOD

HARLAN, Sept. 1.—The sub-grade on the four miles of road between Lena and Canwood was completed by the Moggin-Spores construction company, August 1 and was officially inspected by the Harlan County court of officials on August 25.

The road not finished is pronounced by all who have been over it, including expert road men, to be not only the best road in Harlan county, but equal to any road in Kentucky, including the ones under Federal Aid supervision.

The same construction company has a contract with Harlan county for eight miles of road work to be sub-graded from Lonellen to Ervats.

C. P. Davidson, engineer of this city assisted in the work.

G. A. R. VETS TO SEE MODERN WARFARE IN GREAT SHAM BATTLE

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 1.—In sharp contrast to the now obsolete methods of warfare which remain so vividly in the minds of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, a huge and spectacular sham battle in which all of the modern implements of both land and naval warfare will be employed, is to be presented as one of the entertainment features at the 57th Annual Encampment of the organization here September 2-7.

A minimum of 35,000 persons will attend the encampment, according to James H. Williamson, executive secretary in charge of arrangements. The local committee, however, has made preparations to house 50,000 persons during the week.

The sham battle will be staged in the natural amphitheatre on the Lake Michigan front. Participating in it will be a contingent from the Great Lakes naval training station, with their hydroplanes, bombing planes, sub-chasers and other modern naval paraphernalia; several detachments from the United States army, and a large force of Wisconsin Guardsmen.

FIRPO DANGEROUS TITLE CONTENDER

South American has Had Rapid Rise
To Fame—Has Been Common
Laborer

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Luis Angel Firpo—ex-stevedore, the son of an Italian emigrant to the Argentine—has scaled the pugilistic heights to challenge for the world's heavyweight title after one of the strangest, most picturesque careers the prize ring has ever known. Unheard of two years ago, he is matched to fight Jack Dempsey, the champion, at the Polo Grounds on September 14.

Big, strong and possessed of a powerful punch, Firpo is recognized by boxing critics here as a dangerous contender for the title, but back in his native Argentine, Luis is more than that—he is a national hero.

Born October 29, 1895, nearly 28 years ago, in Buenos Aires, he had little but size and ruggedness to recommend him as a ring prospect. His mother died several years ago, leaving an older brother and a younger sister, besides Luis. The father is now employed in the government railroad offices at Buenos Aires.

Before turning to pugilism as a means of livelihood, Firpo had a variety of occupations, doing odd work as a stevedore for some time. He also earned a little as a bootblack and had another job as bottle-washer in a drug store—the foundation upon which was built the legend that he once was a drug clerk.

Firpo, however, irked under the drudgery of these tasks and devoted most of his spare time to athletics, where he demonstrated all-round progress through natural aptitude and physical qualifications. He had read of the achievements of the world's great pugilists and one day when a friend took him to a gymnasium he seized a chance to enter the ring against an amateur named Angel Rodriguez.

The disastrous ending of that attempt, in 1917, was the real stimulus to Firpo's ring career. He was knocked out in the first round by Rodriguez, who since has retired from active competition.

Yet unschooled and crude in the finer points of the game, Firpo showed enough promise to attract attention of boxing experts. After bowling over Jim Tracey, an Australian, in Buenos Aires, Firpo signed an agreement with Tex Rickard to return to this country for a series of fights, the last with Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight title if he won the others.

That marked the rise of Firpo to real prominence and recognition as a title contender. He bowled over Bill Brennan, Jack McAuliffe and then had a come-back by Jess Willard, besides scoring a number of minor victories here and on a barnstorming trip to Cuba and Mexico. He had battled his way to the top of the heavyweight challenging heap and the title match was a natural outcome.

MINE DISCUSSION

Conference Adjourns Without Definite Agreement in Reports Say Anthracite Operations Suspended.

CLARES OUTLOOK ENCOURAGING

By Associated Press.
HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—(Associated Press)—Conference of anthracite operators and miners after an hour's conference here today, adjourned until next Wednesday, apparently as far apart as ever. Governor Pinchot, however, declared he was encouraged by the outlook. Meanwhile, reports indicate that all anthracite mines here have suspended operations.

SAYS UNION MEN OPPOSE MACHINES

Operators Claim of U. M. W. In Report to U. S. Coal Commission

WASHINGTON, August 31.—So strong is the opposition of the United Mine Workers of America to the introduction of labor saving machinery in soft coal mines that the operators of the Central Pennsylvania field felt that they had to make a plea to the United States Coal Commission to devise ways and means for safeguarding the union mines in their efforts to keep abreast of present day, modern mining methods, according to the Bituminous operators special committee.

One glaring instance was cited where, after the operator had secured a coal cutting machine and offered to have it tried out then come to an agreement with the men as to pay rates for those operating the machine, the men called a strike, flatly refusing to countenance the cutting machine in the mine, and forced the operator to remove it.

The Central Pennsylvania operators pointed out to the Commission that machines have been allowed in the organized mines of their district only after the introduction in open shop mines made competition so severe that it would have been impossible to attempt to go on mining coal only with the old fashioned pick method, which is far less efficient and economical than machine cutting of the coal.

The operators frankly informed the Commission that in their opinion if the coal mining industry was 100 per cent unionized—as the United Mine Workers have proposed as a panacea for all the ills of the coal industry—there never would be another machine introduced into a coal mine in the country. This would mean, of course, that it would cost a lot more to produce the coal, and it necessarily would sell for a higher price to the public.

The intensive use of machines in the union fields is the only hope for them, the Central Pennsylvania operators pointed out, and asked the Commission to aid them in this respect.

Bell County Hiawatha Creates Friendship Among Factions

With the ability of a Hiawatha in preserving peace and amity and with the wisdom of a Solomon in deciding a difficult case, Count Judge J. S. Bingham has crushed a feud at its beginning and sent members of the warring factions home to "live at peace henceforward and as brothers live together."

The trouble started July 4 with the killing of a deputy sheriff in one of the outlying sections. About a dozen men were involved in the bitter enmity of clan strife and a few petty outbreaks between the factions had already occurred.

With his thorough knowledge of the nature of mountain people, a knowledge that carries with it a conviction that force is resented and gentleness is most effective, Judge Bingham, assisted by Deputy Sheriff Emil Smith, summoned the men to appear before him. No warrants were issued, a friendly letter being the medium of communication.

LABOR DAY NOT

No plans for the celebration of Labor Day, Monday, September 3, have been made so far as known. Business will in general continue as usual in Middlesboro. The banks and postoffice will be closed as is their custom on legal holidays, as usual, according to S. M. Reams, president of the Middlesboro Merchants' association. Reports from the coal mining offices indicate that they will be in operation Monday as will also the Big Ben overall factory. The Daily News force will have a holiday.

STONE ASKS LABOR TO TRY FOR PEACE

Says Labor Should Help In Efforts
For World Peace—Labor
Day Message

By Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—The menace of the next war overshadows all other issues which confront the laboring man and "the achievements of centuries of human progress will be swept away by another red tide unless the workers exert their political power to banish forever this scourge of mankind," Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said in a Labor Day message today.

"American Labor can render no greater service than to secure the cooperation of forward-looking men and women in this country as well as in other lands, for the maintenance of permanent world peace," Mr. Stone asserted.

The second great issue in which the workers of America are involved is the struggle between autocracy and democracy in industry. The stability, the harmony, and the prosperity of the nation's economic fabric is at stake. There cannot, there should not be in this land, a dual system of labor and capital. The lives of the nation's basic industries, have a voice in directing the destiny of those industries, at least equal to that of the men who merely invest their money.

NO EXTENSION OF PERITON-ITIS ACCORDING TO REPORT

Late Bulletin, 3:45 p. m.—Physicians announced this afternoon that J. Campbell Cantrell is sinking fast.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 1.—(Associated Press)—It is understood at the hospital here today where J. Campbell Cantrell, Democratic candidate for governor underwent an abdominal operation several days ago, that his condition is grave. There has been an unfavorable change in the condition of Mr. Cantrell, the bulletin issued by Dr. E. L. Henderson, Cantrell's personal physician said today. "He spent a restless night. At midnight his temperature was 101, pulse 90, respiration 20, at eight today his temperature was 99.3-10, pulse 100 respiration 20. There does not seem to be any extension of peritonitis, but he is unable to retain nourishment, and is decidedly weaker this morning." While Dr. Henderson declines to add his official statement it is understood that Cantrell's condition is critical.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 1.—By Associated Press.—Dr. Henderson announced that no more bulletins will be issued on Cantrell's condition until tonight unless there was a decided change.

GERMANY MAY ASK TO ENTER LEAGUE

Reparations Problem Also Expected
To Come Up At Geneva League
Assembly

By Associated Press.
GENEVA, Sept. 1.—The reparations problem and the question whether Germany is to be admitted to membership in the League of Nations are two matters, in the opinion of League authorities, that probably will come up at the meeting of League assembly which opens in this city, Monday, September 30.

In this connection an English delegate said recently: "I don't see how I will be possible to keep the reparations problem out of the discussion, unless it be settled beforehand." And another delegate from one of northern Scandinavian lands, referring to the popular movement in Germany to apply for membership, said: "Certainly Germany should come in. If she applies she would probably be elected easily."

These and other questions, like the problem of opinion have served to create an atmosphere of unusual interest in this year's doings of the assembly. The first business of the agenda is the election of a president and six vice-presidents who, with the presidents of the six committees later elected, form with the president a bureau responsible for the general conduct of the business of the assembly.

CITY TRAFFIC LAW WILL BE ENFORCED

Ordinances Regarding Tail Lights and Parking Violated With Impunity.

A campaign to enforce city traffic ordinances will begin at once, according to Chief H. E. Ball, who states that many of these laws are openly violated daily.

One ordinance that is most commonly violated is that of running a car without tail lights. Not more than half the motorists observe this ordinance, it is said. Ordinances regarding parking of vehicles are also violated frequently. Plans are now being made to mark places on street near the curb for parking.

With the completion of four blocks of paving on Cumberland avenue, the practice of speeding is beginning to be a menace to pedestrians and other vehicles. Laws against this will also be enforced with greater vigilance.

APPROACH OF SCHOOL
OPENING REMINDS US OF ILL-CLAD PUPILS

Now that school is only seventeen days distant the younger generation is beginning to experience the thrills and the dread of going back to school and giving up a long and happy vacation.

But when the school bells ring that first day some Middlesboro children are going to be ashamed to start because they won't have presentable clothes.

Miss Wilhelmina Marx of the Red Cross society here sends out a call to all those parents who in the rush of making school clothes for their own children will not destroy the cast-off clothing, but save it for the less fortunate children in Middlesboro.

Or perhaps those who have no children would like to buy an outfit for some child to whom a pretty dress or two, or a whole brand new suit of clothes would make it possible for them to look their classmates proudly in the face.

Miss Marx asks that all who will help, call her at 407.

She says that she also has on her list a number of unemployed women who are available for general housework, and that she would like to get in touch with those who are desiring such workers.

SUMMER SCHOOL ENROLLMENT LARGE

Over 50 Per Cent Teaching Personnel of State Enrolled For This Summer

By Associated Press.
FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 1.—The total enrollment in the summer schools of Kentucky for the session just closed was 7,444 or 53.0 per cent of the entire teaching force of the state, according to a report made today by Prof. Charles D. Lewis, head of the summer school work in the Department of Education. This represented an increase of more than 400 over the attendance of last year.

Out of the 7,444 teachers and prospective teachers enrolled 491 attended the negro training schools, Prof. Lewis said. The total teaching force of the state in the public elementary and high schools was 13,892 last year, according to Prof. Lewis. An effort was made this year by the department to get as many teachers as possible into the training schools so that the requirements of teaching can be met in the future. Raising of the standards for teaching in the public schools has caused many teachers to go to the summer schools, according to Prof. Lewis.

In the fifty-three county teacher training schools established this year by the Department of Education 3,221 teachers and prospective teachers were enrolled. The rest of them were divided among the state and private institutions as follows: Western State Normal and Teachers College, 1,129; Eastern State Normal and Teachers College, 743; University of Kentucky, 600; Berea College, 231; University of Louisville, 186; Nazareth Academy, 285; Sacred Heart Academy, 200; St. Joseph Academy, 169; St. Catherine's Academy, 61; Union College, 50; Sumner Memorial, 38, and George Town College 20.

The negro students were divided as follows: In nine regional training schools, 305; Kentucky Normal and Industrial Institute, 170; and Simmons University 16.

There has been a gradual increase in the number of students attending the summer schools since the standards for teaching were raised several years ago. Reports received by Prof. Lewis indicated that unusual efforts were made by many students to reach the schools, many of them traveling on horseback for from three to twelve miles and others walking long distances to and from the schools daily. One man traveled approximately 1,250 miles in an automobile during the summer session, according to Prof. Lewis.

GREAT BRITAIN MAY OFFER ARBITRATION

By Associated Press.
CRECO, Italy, Sept. 1.—The Italian bombardment of Corfu caused a profound sensation throughout the world and particularly at the allied capitals and at Geneva where the League of Nations is in session. Italy continues to hold the island of Corfu which lies off the Greek coast. The bombardment, in which fifteen persons were killed and many wounded is officially confirmed. The Greek minister of Foreign Affairs declares that Italy's occupation of Corfu is regarded as a "hostile act." Greece, meanwhile, has appealed to the League of Nations for intervention. The League meets today. The Italian reserves in England are ordered to be in readiness for service. Great Britain indicates that she may intervene actively if Italy refuses to accept arbitration by the league and part of the Mediterranean fleet will be held ready for any access to Corfu.

GENEVA, A. P. Bulletin, Sept. 1.—Greece to day submitted the Greco-Italian controversy to the league of nations.

Roy Owseley has been given the chair of English in the University of Oklahoma and will leave about September 10 to assume his new duties.

GIRL SCOUTS WILL NOT TAKE PART IN TAG DAY

It has been announced that a tag day is against Girl Scout rules and that they will not take part in their tag day to raise money for a joint club house to be used by the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

The girl scouts in Camp Dixie Myrtle went on a picnic Thursday afternoon at the Pump Station. After supper they had a Dutch concert around the fire, after which they had an old fashioned dance at the boat-house. The Lancers Quadrille and Virginia Reel are being learned by the Scouts.

Chapel will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Four visitors were registered in camp yesterday. The girls are all well and happy and report a splendid time.

TWO MERCHANTS' MEETINGS SET FOR EARLY NEXT WEEK

A meeting of the directors of the Middlesboro Merchants' association will be held at 7:30 Monday night in the directors' room of the National bank, according to R. K. Judy, secretary of the association.

RETAIL GASOLINE PRICE DROPPED TO 23 CENTS

The price of gasoline has taken another tumble in Middlesboro, according to officials of the local Standard Oil company. Retailers may now sell it for 23 cents a gallon.

The local drop is in keeping with the general decline in gasoline prices throughout the country. Points distant from the refineries were the last to be affected by the drop.

DISCORD IN STREET WORK

The announcement of the city officials that they will inspect the completed paving of Cumberland avenue September 5, and that protests should be made in writing at the meeting following this inspection is one of interest to every property owner affected by the construction.

The city is anxious to have a good job done as the abutting property owners will make all possible efforts toward this end. It is the duty of property owners to co-operate in this work and, if possible, to be present at the inspection. It is likewise important that they make their criticism or protests, if such are deemed necessary, in writing as the city has suggested.

Those who remain inactive during this inspection and fail to accept the friendly invitation extended by the street committee cannot legally and conscientiously make a complaint afterwards.

In this connection it might also be said that property owners on streets scheduled for repairs or reconstruction would do well to make known their grievances before the work is started and, before the contract is let.

It is not the intention of city officials to attempt to force upon any property holder an undesirable type of paving or unnecessary expenses. All construction work which the city has done or has planned, for the immediate future has been brought to the attention of the public through the press. This being constructive notice, there is no excuse for protests after the contract has been let or the work started.

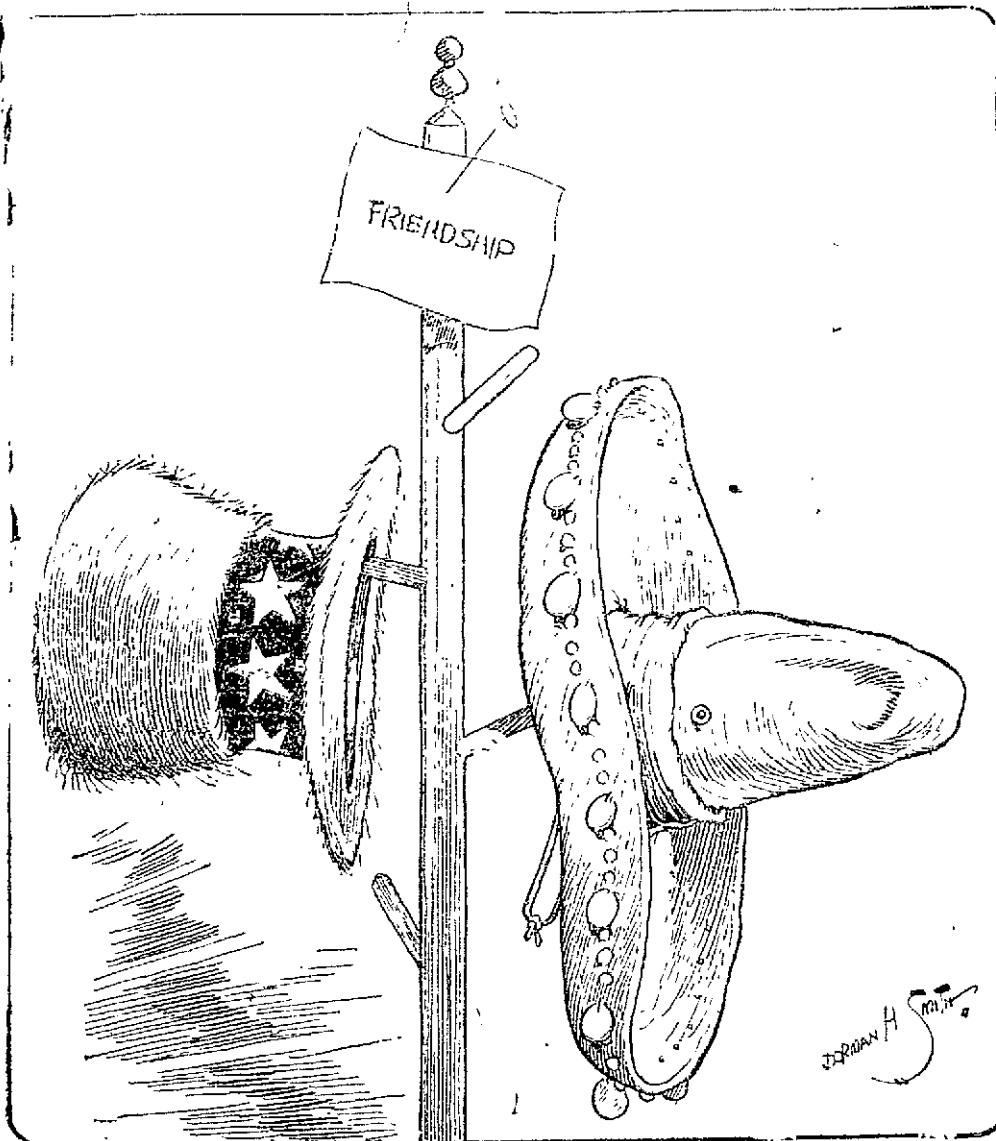

It may be that the specifications on file at the city office are not satisfactory for Middleboro streets; it is also possible that some streets are merely in need of repairs and not reconstruction. Matters of this kind are of a technical nature and we are compelled to rely upon the advice of engineers and experienced road builders.

A spirit of harmony should exist between the property owners, the city and the contractors. They are working for the common good of the city, it is hoped, and discord means delay, unsatisfactory work and unnecessary expense.

THE OPEN FORUM

Editor Daily News: Thinking men and women voters must certainly endure your splendid "editorials" in Thursday's issue. If Middleboro is to progress beyond the small town class, citizens must insist that the city's welfare, and not party politics be the uppermost thought in the minds of public officials. Our public schools have forced to the front ranks, since politics has been ignored in the selection of school trustees. If this is good for our schools, it is good for the city in general!

To secure the best class of men for city commissioners, men and women must take more interest in city elections. We do not seem to realize the importance of expressing our opinions at the polls. Heretofore we have allowed the politicians to select the city officials. Then we complained about the way the public affairs were conducted. Property holders are now realizing the folly of going to sleep while street-building specifications were being prepared. We are now lamenting in vain, over faulty contracts let.

We have seen some crooked ways resorted to, in the conducting of city affairs, while we sanely observed the rule of mountain etiquette "a man may be what he pleases, but it is impolite to talk about it."

The time is here to select two wide-awake, conscientious persons to carry on our city business. Why not try two who have never been identified with political affairs? We must decide on commissioners who will not stoop to graft, either public or private; who will take a firm stand against our greatest menace—the bootlegger. We want taxes spent economically, to the best advantage to the most people; we want the law observed that requires a public statement printed in the city papers as to the condition of the city treasury. We want to know just where our money goes. We would pay our taxes with better spirit if we had this information.

We would like to have the reason investigated why Middleboro pays such high water and light rates, compared with other cities with in 200 miles. Electricity is cheaply produced in close proximity to coal mines. Our water supply must neither be pumped into a selling basin nor purified by chemicals as in many cities where rates are lower.

These are some of the ways in which our fair city may progress and be made attractive for future citizens as well as for those who have lived and suffered, these many years. Let each put a shoulder to the wheel, fellow citizens. The time is at hand. We have but a month to select two who will either push our town forward, let it remain at a stand still, or let it slip backward. Let us then be up and doing. Let's talk it over in a public mass meeting. We must be up and doing. Why not have a public mass meeting and talk it over? If we do not act "now," we need not complain about the way the city business is conducted the next two years.

—A. B. C.

Editor Daily News:

It occurs to many people that it would be a wonderful thing for the growth and development of the city, to elect successful business men to administer its business affairs. Many small towns remain small and forever will remain small because men who have never made a success of anything are elected to manage the affairs of the city.

Middleboro is entering a period of new growth and prosperity. Before her lies the possibility of becoming a large city. Will the people of Middleboro give her a chance? Banks, business houses, mines and all industries are run upon a business basis. Successful men are bound to manage their affairs if they remain competitors of business. Why not try a city administration managed by men who have made a success of their own business.

You may say that the salary of a city commissioner is small and does not attract our best business talent into the service. The salary is small but many capable men have given of their time for the advancement of a community. Capable men have and always will give of their time when they feel the urgent call of a community. A few hours a month from such men would be worth more than a year's service from men who have not learned to successfully manage their own affairs.

When we forget party lines and look about for a business administration we find J. M. Hogan, manager of the Kentucky Mine Supply company, who has successfully managed that corporation. He knows the value of a dollar and he knows how to spend one.

When we think of constructive work, public improvements, spending money and getting 99 cents out of a dollar, we know of no one by nature and by training better fitted for that place than A. C. Carr. The Middleboro Board of Education makes the statement that A. C. Carr saved the city in the recent construction of school buildings at least $10,000.

Then why not get behind these men and let them know that it is their duty to give some of their business talent to the community in which they live, and that the citizenship wants a business administration instead of a political administration.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESOTT TO ALICE HAMILTON

Dear little sister:

I have been intending to write to you for the last few days but after one has been ill quite a time things get in a jumble and it seems as if you are the one who has been running the house. There is so much I want to say to you, dear, that I don't know where to begin. I wonder if you appreciate what a wonderful time you are having, practically doing just what you please. When mother let me go ahead I went with a whole lot of other girls and we had two old maid school teachers who kept strict watch over us. One always went ahead in the Loretto and came back to explain that we couldn't go into certain rooms for fear we would see the nuns.

And there you are, over in Paris, going anywhere you please. Although you haven't told me I have a hunch that you have been pleased to go to Montmartre and all through the Latin Quarter with only a very lovely young man to pilot you and Lottie around. Alice, dear, I note what you say about Karl's being more intellectual and having more heart and more money than Jack. Consequently you wonder why I loved Jack. Although I do not assent to any of your contentions, yet if they were all true I would probably be loving Jack just the same.

One thing you haven't learned yet, little sister, which is probably because you have never been in love. When you do fall in love you will understand people do not love other people because they are intellectual; because they are brilliant; because they are handsome or because they are even kind. You just fall in love. That's all, my dear.

Sometimes I think the old philosophy idea of Emeuclides, of "natural love," by which he means those sympathies which attract a stone to the earth and make rivers flow to the sea, can be applied to men and women.

Two people just naturally gravitate to each other. It is a chemical affinity—the thing that makes oxygen attract hydrogen. Anyway, you cannot give any better reason.

You may go on and on for a long time. People may think they love you. You may think you love others. Because some chemical force in you seeks to unite with some chemical force in another, you may think you are in love, but you soon find out it is neither that force attractive enough to overcome certain thoughts and idiosyncrasies and the thrill dies. All at once two people meet. Every force within one seeks and unites with the similar force in the other. At last you know love.

These two persons need not even be of the same tastes. They may dislike each other very much, still they will be what people generally call "in love with each other." It is a queer sort of feeling, my dear. Sometimes a man or woman never attains real love. They accept substitutes. It is very probable if I had not met Jack I would never have known the love I felt for Karl was not the real love, the great love that now fills my life. I would probably have married Karl.

As it was, the moment I saw Jack I was taken directly off my feet. And now that I have my little home, my husband and my baby, I am afraid it is all too good to be true. Honest ly, Alice, I wake up in the middle of the night my heart going pitapat, and I seem to be waiting for something to enter into my Eden and lay it waste. I have been and am so happy.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton
NO. 3—MISTER GALLOP

"Well, well, well! I'm glad to see you," said Mister Gallop, stepping out of his cave in the Red Rock.

"And we're glad to see you, too!" said Nancy and Nick, climbing down off their ponies and shaking hands with the cowboy fairy.

"I hope you'll like the west," said Mister Gallop.

"Why, we love it already," declared Nick, looking around. The ponies had brought the Twins up a mountain path no wider than a dinner plate to Mister Gallop's cave. And from where they were standing they could look straight down, miles below, it seemed, where the prairie spread out in a great flat ocean of land.

"My, oh, my, but the world's big!" sighed Nancy.

"Yes, 'tis," agreed Mister Gallop, "but not big enough for some folks. That's my job out here, a sort of war-den or ranger, or whatever you call people who keep order."

"There can't be many people living here!" remarked Nick in surprise. "I don't see a house."

"Sh!" Mister Gallop put his finger over his lips. "Right over there," he whispered, pointing to a sharp rock with a dark place underneath, "lives Mrs. Bear and her two children, Jit and Jot. Beyond those pine trees live Mr. and Mrs. Antelope. Up on top of that bald place old Granddaddy Golden Eagle. And down on the prairie live so many people I can't tell you! Why, all those lumpy places are prairie-dog houses. They've got a whole town laid out, but the silly things have their front doors on top. And Jack rabbits grow so big out here they look like dogs. Mister Kyote (coyote) thinks he owns the whole place and lives anywhere he feels like. He's a mean one and makes a meal of any one who happens to be handy. That's part of my job to watch that gentleman. Of course, he doesn't come up into the mountains much, but he does enough damage where he is.

"What do you do when anyone's bad?" asked Nancy.

"I lasso them with my lasso," said Mister Gallop, pointing proudly to a coil of rope lying near.

Berton Braley's Poem

DOLLS
Betty has dolls that can almost talk
And dolls that can hold their eye
And dolls which, wound with a key will walk.
But the one that she seems to prize,
The one that she holds supremely
dear
And constantly pack about,
Has a broken nose, and a battered
ear,
And half of the sawdust out.

she keeps the others in solemn state
And plays with them more or less,
But treats them all in a way sedate
And keeps them in party dress;
But the broken dolly—aren't children queer?

he doll with the broken nose and
ear
Is the one that she loves the best!

And maybe that is the reason why
A woman will fondly cling
To the sort of a man whom the world may eye
As a broken and useless thing;
He'll stick through many a hopeless year
To a weak and a wasted love,
With a crippled soul, and a smashed career.
And half of the sawdust out!

On The Castle of Chillon
Eternal Spirit of the chainless Mind!
Brightest in dungeons, Liberty, thou art—
For there thy habitation is the heart—
The heart which love of Thee alone can bind;

And when thy sons to fetters are consign'd,
The fetters, and the damp vault's day-less gloom,
Their country conquers with their martyrdom,
And Freedom's fame finds wings on every wind.

Chillon! thy prison is a holy place,
And thy sad floor an altar, for 'twas trod,
Unfit his very steps have left a trace,
Worn as if the cold pavement were a sod!
By Bonnyvale! May none those marks efface!
For they appeal from tyranny to God.

—Lord Byron.

Montgomery, and is well-known here. The young couple will make their home at Ewing.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN
If you like to serve a friendly glass and a tasty cake to evening guests, grape juice answers as no other brand of "home brew" can.

Grapes for juice should be perfectly ripe. The fruit's sweetness is at its best when the grapes are not over-ripe.

Aside from beverage purposes, there are many other ways of using grape juice. In this day of prohibition many cooks are "put to it" to find something to take the place of sherry and brandy in sauces and seasonings.

Grape juice, combined with lemon juice, is quite all right for many purposes. Pudding sauces flavored with one tablespoon grape juice to one of lemon juice are delicious and economical. Fruit cake perhaps lacks that crumbly richness and moistness when deprived of brandy, but one tablespoon grape juice, one tablespoon lemon juice and one tablespoon cold strong coffee used in the cake, and grape juice alone used for dampening the wrappings, will give a cake that's "hard to beat." But the cake can not be kept indefinitely, as if an alcoholic preservative were used.

Ham baked in grape juice rivals real Virginia ham.

There are several ways of making grape juice but the one I like to use is simple but a saving of cans or bottles.

Grape Juice

Pick grapes from stem. Wash thoroughly. Put in preserving kettle with a very little water and heat, stirring to prevent sticking. When the skins are broken and the juice flows freely put into jelly bag and let drip. Measure juice and allow one-fourth cup of granulated sugar for each cup of juice. Return juice to preserving kettle and bring juice to the boiling point. When boiling stir in the required amount of sugar. Any scum that rises on the juice before the sugar is added should be carefully skimmed off. After the sugar is added there should be no scum. Do not let the juice boil after adding sugar. Pour into hot cans or bottles and seal at once. The bottle "must" be full to overflowing and the juice at the boiling point when sealed. This juice should be diluted when used as a drink.

The method of canning the whole grapes is quicker for the time being but if cans and space are to be considered it is not as practicable.

However, for the woman who has more cans and room than time, I give this recipe:

Grape Juice II

Fill glass jars half full of grapes. Pour over cold water to fill the jars to within one inch of the top. Half seal and put in boiler. Fill boiler with cold water, covering jars by at least an inch. Bring to the boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand in boiler until water is cold. Remove and finish sealing jars. Sweeten to taste when wanted, but do not dilute with water.

Any variety of grapes can be used, but Concord grapes make a rich, delicious juice.

Don't Pay Your Bills a second Time

How Many Times have you been called upon to pay some bill the second time, just because you forgot to take a receipt on the first occasion?

Of course you had an argument; but as you couldn't prove that you had paid, you were usually the "loser."

Why not avoid these costly disputes by depositing your income in a Checking account at this bank, and paying all bills by check?

An endorsed check is indisputable evidence that you have paid the bill.

PRINCE EDWARD WILL SEEK REST

On His 6000-Acre Ranch Edward Will Forget Court Worries For A While.

HIGH RIVER, ALBERTA, Canada, Aug. 1.—Edward, Prince of Wales, is coming to his extensive ranch 25 miles from here early in September for a real vacation.

That is the sole purpose behind his determination to spend some weeks roaming about on the 6,000 acres of beautiful farm ranch land in the shade of the Canadian Rockies.

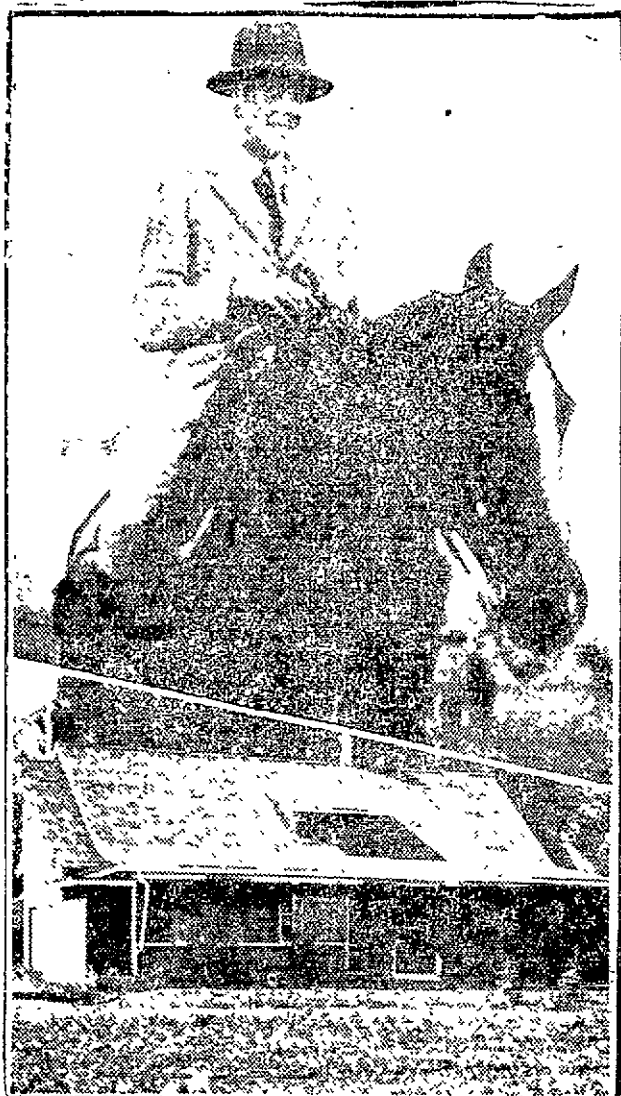

He sails from England on September 5 and his visit to Canada is not to be interfered with in any way by official engagements. In the past few months he has had plenty of those.

His world-wide popularity and his position as the probable future ruler of the British empire, has caused countless demands to be made upon him to attend every conceivable kind of function and ceremony.

Until the end of October he is going to spend the time directing management of his pure bred horses, cattle and sheep; in riding over his extensive acres in which numerous streams well filled with fatted trout ripple and partridge and other game is plentiful.

Engages Manager

In 1919 the prince became a land owner in Canada. At that time, when a guest of George Lane, native of Des Moines, Ia., on the latter's "Bar U" ranch, Edward became so enthusiastic about the country he asked Lane to arrange the purchase for the territory he now calls his own.

This Little World

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Providence certainly looks after the British. They don't look after themselves. When it comes to food cleanliness and food preservation they are just one million miles behind us. For instance, seen in one walk around town.

A butcher shop in which the meat was hanging on hooks in the open air.

without any attempt to cool it artificially. No fly screens, no big cool ice box such as we take as a matter of course in our country.

A fish shop in which the fish lay on the zinc counters with very little ice and with the flies swarming on them.

A boy pushing through the streets a handcart in which several big rusty looking cans held milk. No ice. The milk was dipped out of the cans amid clouds of dust.

A wagon delivering rolls and bread to a little restaurant. Bread wrapped in clean transparent paper unknown. Man drops some of the rolls on the pavement, dusts them off on his coat and delivers them as if nothing had happened.

Having heard these things it will not surprise you that at this late date the British Ministry of Health has just appointed a committee to inquire whether the use of preservatives and coloring matter in food is injurious to health and, if so, in what quantities. Secondly, whether the presence of such materials should be announced on the container.

Britain is still the home of 'fruit preserves' made out of melon rinds and carrots, in which flower seed are mixed, to look like real fruit seeds.

The other day a doctor who served as an examiner for the British army told me one man who came to him gave as his regular employment—"assortment of flower seeds for fruit preserves."

Gosh!

A cynical British friend has just asked me whether Congress will vote a medal of honor to the jolly old far who captained the Italian passenger ship, President Wilson. According to him, two days before the vessel was due in New York, the captain received a wireless from Italy warning him he was not allowed inside our three-mile line.

He postponed at once. "Doing all we can. One thousand thirsty passengers drinking beer tapily as possible. Hope to arrive in New York square with the laws."

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—The men—young fellows who know the finest girls in the world—are the star customers at the florists' shops on Michigan avenue and in the Loop. But not at the flower counters which hide away in corners of the elevated stations, spreading their perfume at low rates before the rush-hour crowds. There the best buyers are women, and the men who do patronize these stands, the proprietors say, have the unmistakable air of husbands.

Husbands are supposed to be protected against testimony by their wives, but listen to this statement from a Chicago wife who just filed a damage suit against her mate.

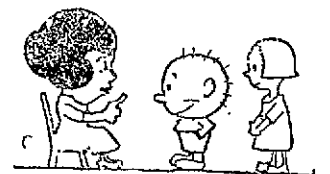

"He wears long silk stockings and fastens them with small gold safety pins to his B V D's. He has 30 pairs of extra long ladies' silk stockings—for himself all right. He says socks let his knees get cold."

Any other nominations for the title of "meanest woman"?

Thirty new members, agreeing to pay regular dues of $1.50 a month, were added last week to the Chicago local of the Barbers' Benevolent and protective association. Put that down as the height of optimism, it you like, but the chubby, bald-faced, white-aproned brothers are going in for faith these days. The desert is going to bloom as the rose, say the beer gardeners, under the moistening influence of the dues.

A Chicago teacher called on a class to define luxury. The best answer given was, "An elevator in a bungalow." That elevator ought to qualify in the usual columnist's category of the height of something or other. Another one that is going the round here is, "Why do so many women take up knitting?" to which the stock reply is, "So they'll have something to think about while they talk."

Do the workers rush out to the merchants during lunch time in your town? The merchants rush out to the workers in big factories here. On ev-on a dull day, half a dozen curbstone business men can be found on the job at the gates of most of the major industrial plants. Look around and behold a real estate agent with a map of his "subdivision," a seller of second-hand automobiles, a blind musician, a patent medicine lecturer, flower girls, popcorn and fruit, of course, and a Salvation Army service. The prayer-meeting draws as large an audience as any of them, too.

NOT SO PEACEFUL YET IN IRELAND

Still The New State Starts Out With Some Good Things To Its Credit

DUBLIN, Aug. 30.—King Rebellion is dead! Long live King Trouble! This seems to be the situation in Ireland today.

On the right of the ledger there are some good things:

1.—The new state starts out with an creditor nation. Ireland exports far more than it imports.

2.—The necessity of maintaining 30,000 troops to fight the Volunteers is over; part of the army will be demobilized soon.

3.—Peace is so far restored that civic guards are policing the country. There will be 570 civic guard stations in place of 1,214 Royal Irish Constabulary barracks.

4.—Railroads south and west of Dublin, long subject to sabotage, are operating regularly.

5.—Restored transportation has given new economic life to the farm districts.

6.—Rebuilding the ruins caused by bomb and torch is progressing.

7.—The postal service is being restored to pre-Valeta efficiency.

Now for the ledger's other side:

1.—Last figures showed nearly 30,000 unemployed; these figures are apt to be doubled within a few months.

2.—Jim Larkin has returned, radical as ever, and apt to proclaim himself in favor of a workers' empire.

3.—In some districts farm owners are experiencing a workers' strike, which shows a tendency toward arson and sabotage.

4.—Election of a new Dail promises great bitterness. The Free State's very life may be involved. Many Valeristas will run as republicans. Labor will have a long list of candidates, many of them reds. It looks as if there will be two blocs in the Dail—on one side Free States and farmers, safety conservative, on the other side the labor and republican elements.

NEW BATTLESHIP IS ADDED TO THE AMERICAN NAVY

Is Designated—"The Most Powerful Fighting Machine Afloat"—Latest Advance Designs in Ship Building Installed Colorado Is A Vast Experimental Laboratory

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The addition of the battleship Colorado, which was commissioned at Camden, New Jersey, today to the United States battle fleet once more places the navy in undisputed possession of that trophy of marine construction, "the most powerful fighting machine afloat."

Naval engineers of the principal maritime powers practically without exception have conceded that the 33,000-ton, 21 knot monster, electrically equipped throughout and with the ability to toss eight tons of metal and explosives 34,500 yards, is without an equal on any of the seven seas.

Formal acceptance of the Colorado by the Navy Department today marks the end of the work of rounding out the first line of the United States battle fleet as allotted by the five power treaty. During the next eight years—until 1931—no keel will be laid in any American yard for a first class naval ship. In that year work will be begun on ships to replace three of the present fleet.

The new Queen of the Seas is described in marine circles as "a vast experimental laboratory." The most advanced designs in ship equipment of every sort have been installed, from her huge propelling motors to the dainty electric potato peelers in the galley. These will be tested thoroughly and the results placed at the disposal of American shipbuilders for their guidance in building the national merchant marine and the future navy. The Colorado will possess all the conveniences of a well equipped club. Within her hull are spacious quarters for her complement of 1,169 officers and men, as well as reading and writing rooms, a recreation room, special ladies' room for visitors, laundry without limitation as to the number of pieces to be handled, a barber shop, a tailor shop, cobbler shop and moving picture theatre.

"DREAM STREET" FAILS TO SCORE APPROVAL HERE

"Dream Street" was a disappointment. D. W. Griffith fell way below his high class of production in the picture last night. Carol Dempster was the only redeeming feature of the evening with her graceful, joyous acting in the leading role of Gyp-v. There was a lack of unity in the plot. The brothers were impossible characters. The climax in the picture was flat and situations aimed to create sympathy from the audience received smiles instead. Griffith has deservedly won fame for his productions where gorgeous settings and elaborate costumes predominate but in "Dream Street," a simple human interest story, Griffith failed.

Insults Flag

COLOGNE.—A French civilian was arrested recently, but released with a sharp reprimand, on a charge of having grossly insulted the British flag. Soldiers say he spat upon it.

The Isle of Pines, despite its name, specializes on grape fruit production.
